

If I tell you something do you promise not to freak out

I figured it would be better to tell you now than for you to find out that I knew all along

That you knew what

They told me your address by accident today

Bc they thought that we both moved since I was on your application

Yeah, I figured. That's why I've been spamming DHS customer service

I'm not going to do anything

I just thought it would be better that you knew

Rather than me keep it to yourself

Editado como: "Rather than me keep it to myself "

I don't know the exact house number
They just said
"And you're at the E Mt Royal address, right?"

They also told me how much money you made and damn boy
You rich rich

Did you end up getting the promotion?

No, that's been my income all along. So much of that goes to our health insurance my actual paycheck is usually at least $100 less than yours.

Holy shit that's crazy.